Cited by General Pershing:

"For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services as adjutant Air Service, 1st Army, France."

Cited in general orders 1st Army Air Service:

"For exceptional devotion to duty. First lieutenant Henry S. Sturgis, A.S., U.S.A., has been on duty at these headquarters as assistant adjutant and adjutant during the Saint-Mihiel and Argonne drives and has carried out his work in a very creditable and efficient way. His position has been a very difficult one and he has worked hard, faithfully and continually the whole time. It is largely through his efforts that success in our operation has been achieved. The work of coordinating the different sections of a headquarters is not easy and furthermore much of the detail work has fallen on the adjutant. Previous to this time Lieutenant Sturgis was on duty as adjutant at Autreville and as adjutant of the 477th Aero Construction Squadron at Amanty."

Cited in general orders Air Service, Army Group:

"For distinguished and meritorious service. As adjutant, 1st Army, this officer rendered exceptionally meritorious service. By his careful attention to detail and his splendid devotion to duty, he was able to cause the Administrative Department of the 1st Army to function efficiently."

"On the afternoon of October 14, 1918, after getting his companies north of the River Aire, in order not to sacrifice any of his men and in order that the attack might be eminently successful, he made a personal reconnaissance in the face of a terrific bombardment and heavy machine gun fire, his life being in great danger at all times. At all times during this reconnaissance he had no thought of personal fear and acted solely in the interests of devotion to his regiment and his service. His conduct calls for the highest admiration and commendation and excited remarks of greatest admiration from all his officers and men. It was probably due to this courageous example that the attack was so successful. He showed qualities which are necessary in subordinate leaders, carried out his orders with great exactness and promptness, and with great presence of mind, handled his battalion in a most satisfactory manner."

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy northeast of Binerville in the Argonne Forest, France, October 2-7, 1918. Although cut off for five days from the remainder of his division, Major Whittlesey maintained his position which he had reached under orders received for an advance and held his command consisting originally of 463 officers and men of the 308th Infantry and of Company K, of the 307th Infantry, together in the face of superior numbers of the enemy during the five days. Major Whittlesey and his command were thus cut off and no rations or other supplies reached him in spite of the determined efforts which were made by his division. On the fourth day, Major Whittlesey received from the enemy a written proposition to surrender, which he treated with contempt, although he was at that time out of rations and had suffered a loss of about 50 per cent of killed and wounded of his command and was surrounded by the enemy."

Awarded Croix de Guerre with the following citation:

"Officier d'un courage et d'un dévouement admirables. Ayant atteint avec son bataillon l'objectif qui lui était assigné le 2 octobre 1918, en Argonne, s'est maintenu sur la position occupée pendant cinq jours quoique entouré par l'ennemi. A la tête de ses quatre cent soixante-cinq hommes et officiers a résisté à un ennemi supérieur en nombre. Sommé de se rendre le quatrième jour, alors qu'il n'avait plus de vivres et qu'il avait perdu la moitié de ses hommes, a refusé de répondre à cette proposition" (general order of the Army).

Awarded Order of the White Eagle (Serbian); Order of St. Sava (Serbian); Order of Danilo (Montenegrin). Awarded Order of the Star of Karageorge with Swords (Serbian) with the following citation:

"In the year 1914, he has sent from the United States as the first aid from that country a completely equipped hospital of 250 beds with doctors and nurses staff. In the year 1915, during the serious epidemic which existed in Serbia at that time, he has sent to our people large quantities of underwear, blankets, medicines and food supplies. In the year 1916, after the retreat of the Serbian Army, he took about 650 children of the Serbian refugees, from 5 months to 16 years old and with the assistance of Madame Darinka Grouitch, he gave them aid, treated them and educated them giving to this cause his own time and large sums of money. In 1917, as soon as America declared war with Germany, he came to Salonica as the delegate of the American Red Cross, and not sparing his energy or money, exposing himself to all the risks of war, he has helped the Serbian population on all sides especially in Monastir, which suffered so much. In 1918, as soon as the Serbians and the Allies have liberated Macedonia, he went from one place to another helping our population which has been made very destitute by the enemy, he organized women's training schools, in Skopje he organized a workshop where 300 women worked in order to supply the much needed cloth to the people, and for that purpose alone he spent 90 thousand dinars of his own money, besides much larger gifts which he had given to us. Since the operations stopped he has not ceased to give both personal and financial aid. In one word: he showed himself a merited friend of the Serbian People by his actions during the long and difficult war. For his consistent zeal and beneficial work in the interest of our Army and our people I hereby cite Mr. Frothingham."
